

Listening to Others

Suggested Role-Plays

- 1. Your teacher is talking about tonight's homework assignment. Show how you would pay attention.
- 2. Your class welcomes a guest speaker to talk about the NASA shuttle program. Show how you would listen carefully to the speaker.
- 3. Your classmates are presenting their history projects. Show how you would listen to them.
- 4. Your school is having an all-day assembly with speakers and performers. Show how you would be respectful to the guests and interested in what they are saying and doing.
- 5. Your dad is telling you how to stack and clear dishes from the dining table. Show or say how you would listen carefully.
- 6. Your uncle is explaining the rules of a board game to you and a friend. Following the steps of the skill, show or describe how you would listen so your uncle wouldn't have to repeat the instructions.

Listening to Others

Think Sheet

Name _____ Date _____

List some places where being an active listener or listening carefully is important:

-
-
-
-

List some times when listening to others is very important:

-
-
-
-

What facial expressions (smiling, frowning, yawning, glaring, etc.) should you have when listening to others?

How does the skill of Listening to Others help you at school?

How does the skill of Listening to Others help you at home?

Listening to Others

- 1. Look at the person who is talking and remain quiet.
- 2. Wait until the person is finished talking before you speak.
- 3. Show that you heard the person by nodding your head and saying “Okay” or “That’s interesting.”